IMPROVING THE ENVIRONMENT FOR MĀORI ACCESSING EMERGENCY CARE

Wednesday 29 May, 7.00 – 8.00pm

NATASHA HEMOPO KEMP

(Tūhourangi Ngāti Wāhiao, Ngāti Pīkiao, Ngāti Tamaterā)

Emergency Clinical Nurse Consultant

Member of CENNZ (holds the Pae Ora Portfolio)

Nursing Advisor with Manaaki Mana

Natasha currently works in multiple roles, all for the purpose of improving the environment for Māori patients and whānau who enter emergency care, drawing on over 25 years of nursing experience. Simultaneously Natasha is a staunch advocate for Māori nurses and improving our Māori workforce. She is a Te Runanga Representative for Māori Nurses in Emergency and a member of Te Whiri Kaha, a Māori Clinical Senate as well as currently completing a research report around Māori nurses experience working in emergency care.

This presentation will include:

- Some of the inequities Māori experience in the environment of emergency care
- The impacts this has on Māori
- Why these inequities have occurred & continue today
- Share an understanding on the history of Māori health
- Discuss how emergency nurses can work towards removing these inequities and improve the environment of emergency care for Māori.
