- (a) The residents require 24/7 attention, so shift work and rosters are required to ensure that care is provided at all times.
 - (b) Guaranteed hours of work are set out in individual letters of offer or subsequent variations and are further detailed on a fortnightly basis by rosters, per clause 7.
 - (c) The Health and Safety at Work Act 2015 requires the Employer to take reasonably practicable steps to prevent harm from occurring to employees from the way work is organised and therefore the Employer shall ensure rosters are developed to avoid the known risks to the employees who work the rostered shifts (refer to clause 26).
- 10.2. In determining the employee resourcing levels required per roster period, the Parties note the following:
- 10.3. The Employer is required by the Aged Residential Care Contract to ensure there are sufficient employees on duty to meet the health and personal care needs of all Subsidised Residents at all times.
- 10.4. The Employer, as a health care provider, is required to comply with the Health and Disability Standards on employee resourcing levels.
- 10.5. The Employer, as a health care provider, is encouraged to comply with the NZ Standards Indicators for Safe Aged Care and Dementia Care SNZ HB 8163:2005 including the indicator for Monitoring Service Provider (direct care staff) levels as a minimum.
- 10.6. Noting the provisions in clause 10.1(b) above, up to 10 hour shifts may be worked by mutual agreement. Overtime shall apply if, by mutual agreement, an employee works more than 10 hours in any one shift.
- 10.7. No employee shall be compelled to work more than 5 hours without an uninterrupted interval of at least half an hour for a meal. If a meal break is worked through at the request of the Employer, or an employee is specifically requested to stay on the premises during their meal break/s, the break will be paid for. - 10.10. Unless agreed per clause 10.6 above, the ordinary hours of work for a night shift employee shall not exceed eight hours per shift, which shall include a paid meal break.
- 10.11. All interchange of shifts shall be subject to the approval of the Manager, who must be notified of the changes 3 days in advance. Such approval will not be unreasonably withheld.
- 10.12. Employees shall not be brought back to work after their day's work has finished until after a break of eight hours. Any period during which an employee is required to work within twelve hours of their starting time or within eight hours of their previous finishing time shall be paid at the rate of time and a half for the hours worked.
- 10.13. Employees who were members of the E tū Incorporated and who were working broken shifts as at 17 April 1998, if this arrangement was at management's request, may choose to continue working them and will be paid the broken shift allowance specified in SCHEDULE of this Agreement.
- 10.14. Wherever practicable, additional hours shall be offered to existing employees in the first instance.

- 10.15. Notwithstanding clause 10.12, by mutual agreement between the Employer and an Employee, the Employee may work additional hours within a 12-hour period without requiring an eight-hour break between shifts, provided that:
- (a) The additional hours are offered by the Employer and are voluntarily accepted by the Employee, and
 - (b) The periods of duty may be worked in the same or different roles, departments or locations; and
 - (c) One period of duty does not start and end between 2300 and 0700; and
 - (d) Each period of work will be treated as a separate period of duty for rostering purposes, but the total hours worked across both periods will be aggregated for the purpose of applying clause 11.1 (Overtime); and
 - (e) The hours shall be paid at ordinary rates up to a total of 10 hours (excluding breaks) within the 12-hour period, and hours worked in excess of 10 hours shall be paid at overtime rates in accordance with clause 11.1; and
 - (f) This arrangement shall not constitute a split shift for the purposes of clause 10.13, nor be used as a substitute for standard rostering practices.
 - (g) For the purposes of interpreting clause 10.6 the 10-hour threshold applies to the aggregated hours under clause 10.15
 - (h) The clause is intended to support employees who wish to pick up additional hours or work across roles, and/or locations on the same day, without being disadvantaged to do so by the minimum eight-hour break incurring overtime as per clause 10.12.
 - (i) This arrangement does not override the Employer's obligation under clause 10.1© and the Health and Safety at Work Act 2015 to ensure rosters are designed to manage fatigue and other known risks.

- Using social media platforms to communicate to employees, contractors, residents, visitors and customers.

It's everyone's responsibility to familiarise themselves with this policy as significant breaches of this policy may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment or Metlifecare taking appropriate action in relation to a contractor, resident, visitor or customer found to have harassed, discriminated against or bullied including but not limited to termination of engagement and trespass or removal from village premises.

Confidentiality

In instances where there is an alleged breach of this policy it's important to apply discretion and confidentiality to protect all individuals concerned or impacted. All information must be treated confidentially, wherever possible by all parties involved.

Where a complaint is serious and/or a Manager or Human Resources believes that action should be taken in order to protect the safety and well-being of individuals involved, then confidentiality may not be able to be maintained even if the individual who raised the complaint does not wish the matter to be taken further. In such circumstances information will be disclosed only to those people who need to know about the complaint.

The obligation of confidentiality does not prevent Metlifecare from using or disclosing any material necessary to instigate or defend any legal proceedings, make submissions in relation to any enquiry or complaint, or to refer a matter to the police.

As a member of the Metlifecare team it is your obligation to:

- Treat your colleagues, residents, visitors, contractors or anyone else associated with the workplace with dignity and respect.

Managing Disciplinary Procedures

Objectives

Metlifecare seeks to create a positive, safe and mutually rewarding employment relationship and to avoid the need for disciplinary action. Our various policies and procedures are designed to ensure that these objectives are achieved wherever possible.

We acknowledge that from time to time conflicts or issues can arise and it's important that these are dealt with in a timely and fair manner. Metlifecare would prefer to resolve issues informally however, the disciplinary and termination of employment policy and process has been established to guide all employees and managers where this is not possible.

Issues relating to continued poor performance, misconduct or serious misconduct or other ground for termination may give rise to the operation of this policy and where disciplinary action is appropriate a procedurally fair process must be consistently applied across the business. Instances of Poor Performance and Misconduct/Serious Misconduct are different issues however all may result in disciplinary action being taken.

The policy does not include an exhaustive list of circumstances where this policy may apply and therefore depending on the circumstances an employee may still be subject to disciplinary action up to and including dismissal or termination for other grounds.

Managers must consult with Human Resources on all potential disciplinary cases or potential termination cases arising in advance of any meetings being held or actions being taken to ensure that a robust and procedurally fair process is followed to mitigate any employment relation risks to Metlifecare.

Scope

This policy will be applied fairly to all Metlifecare employees subject to any specific provisions as outlined in their employment agreement and applicable legislation. Where a conflict exists between this policy and the employment agreement, the employment agreement terms shall apply.

The difference between Poor Performance, Misconduct and Serious Misconduct

Poor Performance

If an employee's performance is falling below expected standards Managers should in the first instance document these and raise informally with the employee through coaching sessions making sure to clearly outline the concern and the expected level of performance required. File notes should be kept by the Manager to evidence the discussions.

Examples of poor performance may include but not be limited to

- Failure to perform to the required standards of work and any related responsibilities
- Lateness, absenteeism or poor timekeeping

Where poor performance continues to be an issue despite the provision of feedback to an employee Managers should instigate a Performance Improvement Plan in consultation with Human Resources. The plan should document and outline the areas of concern, expected level of performance, timeframe for demonstrating improvement required and any additional support that may be required to assist the employee to achieve the expected standard e.g. additional training.

The Manager should meet regularly with the employee to discuss the plan and the employee's progress and adherence to this.

In the event that the Performance Improvement Plan does not yield a satisfactory and sustained improvement in the employee's performance then this continued matter may be considered to be misconduct /serious misconduct and should progress to a disciplinary meeting.

Misconduct

Matters that constitute misconduct may include but not be limited to

- Failure to carry out lawful and reasonable instructions
- Misuse of company property including wastage of time or materials) or failure to report damage to company, resident, employee or visitor property
- Failure to act at all times in a manner that promotes and protects Metlifecare's business, reputation and relationships including demonstrating a lack of respect for residents, other employee or management
- Failure to adhere to Metlifecare policies and procedures including dress code, smoke free workplace and security policies.
- Behaviour which is disruptive or socially unacceptable
- Poor personal hygiene or presentation despite receiving feedback
- Refusal to attend a doctor as nominated by Metlifecare for the purpose of establishing fitness to work

- Abandonment by leaving the assigned place of work without permission
- Preventing other employees from undertaking their duties
- Failure to comply with housekeeping requirements from time to time
- Excessive personal use of phone or internet during working hours

Serious Misconduct

Matters that constitute serious misconduct may include but not be limited to

- Repeated failure to act at all times in a manner that promotes and protects Metlifecare's business, reputation and relationships including demonstrating a lack of respect for residents, other employee or management
- Any form of abuse (physical, psychological or verbal) intimidation or assault of any employee, resident or visitor
- Being in possession of and /or taking unauthorised restricted pharmaceutical or illegal drugs, e.g. illicit drugs whilst at work (other than those personally prescribed by your GP)
- Reporting for work in a condition (due to the influence of drugs or alcohol) which renders the employee unable to perform their duties with due care or safety
- Unauthorised absence/Abandonment of employment
- Insubordination where the result or risk may present serious or significant consequences
- Negligence, incompetence, disorderly conduct or practical jokes that could affect the personal safety and or environment of Residents or Metlifecare Property including medication errors, acts or practices that cause injury or damage to people and property, breaches of HSSE policies and procedures including failure to report.
- Any breach of confidentiality
- All forms of unlawful discrimination or harassment on the basis of age, gender, sex, race etc.
- Theft or unauthorised removal of funds or property, including the consumption of residents' food or beverages and the unauthorised consumption of Company food or beverages
- Unauthorised gambling activity on Company premises or involving residents in illegal gambling activities
- Sleeping whilst on duty
- Accepting gifts, gratuities or bequests in breach of the Gift Policy and Procedure
- Seeking to gain from a personal relationship when that relationship has been gained or developed as a result of employment at Metlifecare
- Falsification of documentation or systems including rosters, timesheets, expenses, reports, employment application forms and cash/cheque handling procedures.
- Breach of Metlifecare Media and Electronic Communications Policy including unauthorised media statements and social media postings
- Convictions for dishonesty, violent offences or other convictions that materially impacts an individual's ability to perform their duties

- Filming or recording an individual without permission
- Failure to maintain required industry practising certificates

Format of a Disciplinary Procedure

The format of the procedure may vary depending on the nature and seriousness of the issue arising, however Metlifecare can consider the following actions as a potential outcome to any disciplinary process following due consideration:

- Informal resolution of the issue (s)
- Instigation of an investigative meeting
- Appointing an internal and/or external person to investigate the issue (s)
- Suspending on pay or transferring an employee to alternative duties pending an investigation (provided the issue is sufficiently serious or warranted based on Health & Safety grounds)
- A decision on whether or not to take any action
- Where an HSSE related incident has occurred an incident investigation will be conducted prior to any disciplinary investigation.

Investigative Meeting

An investigation meeting will be held where an allegation or issue arises where further detail or evidence is required to inform whether or not a disciplinary meeting and or action is appropriate.

Employees will receive a letter inviting them to attend an investigative meeting and will be informed of the nature of the allegations or concern to be discussed at the meeting. They will also be informed of their right to seek legal advice and their right to be accompanied to the meeting.

At the meeting the employee will be given the opportunity to respond to the allegations and provide an explanation of events or to provide detail of any mitigating circumstances that they feel should be taken into consideration. If necessary adjournments may be required to investigate information provided by the employee in their response.

The role of the representative

Employees have the right to be accompanied to an investigative or disciplinary meeting. They may elect to have a work colleague, a union representative or advocate, a lawyer or family member or friend accompany them. The role of the representative is to provide morale support and advice. They can ask questions and take notes of the discussion but may not prevent the employee from participating in the meeting.

Employees are encouraged to be accompanied in circumstances where;

- There is a possibility that the investigation will lead to disciplinary action
- There are legal questions or issues involved
- The employee is inexperienced and may be overwhelmed by the situation
- There may be cultural or language considerations

Provided the employee is made aware of this right but elects not to be accompanied, this has no impact on the procedural fairness of the process.

Metlifecare has an Employee Assistance Programme (EAP) that provides free, confidential support to employees on a 24/7 basis. Managers should encourage employees undergoing an investigative and/ or disciplinary process to utilise this service for additional support.

Outcome of the investigation meeting – No Disciplinary Action

If following an investigation process the explanation provided by the employee is acceptable or allegations are unfounded then no disciplinary action will be taken. As appropriate a discussion should take place around measures such as further training or other support for the employee.

Disciplinary Meeting

If circumstances do warrant a disciplinary action being taken the employee will be invited to attend a formal disciplinary meeting at which proposed measures will be discussed, including findings from the investigation process, the reasons for the findings and any proposed disciplinary action being considered.

No conclusion will be reached at the meeting itself and the employee will be subsequently advised in writing of the final outcome.

Where practicable, for misconduct and serious misconduct cases it is considered best practice for an Independent Manager (that was not involved in the Investigative Meeting) to be appointed to hold any resulting Disciplinary Meetings.

Potential Disciplinary Outcomes/Actions

Disciplinary action may range from a written warning to dismissal of an employee with or without notice (summarily dismissed)

If a warning is issued this should be reflective of the seriousness of the situation. For example a Final Warning may be given without the employee having previously received a first or second warning.

Warnings will be held on an employee's file for a period of 12 months and a copy will be provided to the employee. Where there is a repetition of the same type of incident that results in a warning being issued more than 12 months ago this will be taken into consideration in determining further disciplinary action.

First Instance of Misconduct/Performance

In the event of misconduct or poor performance, the employee will meet with their Manager and Human Resources and if the employee's explanation does not resolve the matter to the satisfaction of the manager the employee will be issued with a First Warning. The Warning Letter will confirm the unsatisfactory performance or conduct, the improvements and timeframe in which the employee is required to meet expected standards and possible consequences of non-compliance.

Second Instance of Misconduct/Performance

Where required improvements are not achieved and sustained a further disciplinary meeting may be held with an employee. If the employee is unable to provide a satisfactory response a Second and Final Warning may be issued which outlines that continued failure to achieve acceptable standards may result in dismissal.

Serious Misconduct

In the event of establishing serious misconduct an employee may face a final warning or potentially dismissal depending on the circumstances.

If a final warning is issued (rather than dismissal being confirmed) then this may be accompanied by further sanctions including revocation of privileges, remedial training, an impact on the annual performance review and forfeiture of discretionary incentive pay may be considered.

Suspension

In the event of suspected serious misconduct where an investigation is required (or in any case an investigation is required and there are reasonable grounds to suspend an employee e.g. police investigation, harassment, bullying etc.) the employee may be:

- Suspended on full pay and excluded from Company premises, and
- Asked to report to their Manager or People Team at a specified time which allows for a full inquiry into the allegations

In order for a suspension to be fair, prior to the imposition of the suspension, the employee must

- Be informed of the process regarding the suspension, and
- Be given the opportunity to comment on the proposed suspension

Suspension is not a disciplinary outcome and does not imply that there has been misconduct or that complaints or allegations are justified. It is a neutral act that enables an investigation to be carried out where the presence of the employee in the office may complicate or jeopardise this process.

In the event that serious misconduct is established, the Manager who conducted the investigation in consultation with People Team

Any potential suspension requires the approval of Head of Employment Relations & Business Partnering.

Dismissal

Dismissal may occur where performance or conduct is deemed by Metlifecare to be sufficiently unsatisfactory or serious to justify terminating an employee's employment.

Employment may be ended either with or without notice.

Whilst dismissal may be preceded by a prior warning in cases of serious misconduct it may also occur where no warnings have been given.

Any potential dismissal requires the approval of the Head of Employment Relations & Business Partnering.

Other Grounds for Termination

In some instances an action or inaction by an employee may give rise to circumstances that are not considered a disciplinary matter but may materially impact the continuing employment relationship with the company and result in termination of employment

Examples of such circumstance may include but not be limited to the following;

- Medical incapacity
- Failure to maintain the legal right to work
- Abandonment of employment
- Failure to disclose a material fact that may impact the ongoing employment relationship e.g. a criminal conviction during employment that prevents an employee from fulfilling their duties

Personal Grievance

If an employee has any concerns about their employment, or how they are treated at work, they should advise Metlifecare as soon as possible so these can be resolved. The first step is for the employee and Metlifecare to discuss the problem and try to find possible solutions.

If the issue cannot be resolved then a personal grievance may be raised. The employee has 90 days from the time the problem occurred, or became known by the employee, to raise the grievance with Metlifecare via the People Team.

If the problem cannot be resolved, the employee or Metlifecare can seek help from an external party, e.g. one or more of the following:

- Employment Mediation Services, which offers free information and mediation to help employers and employees work together to resolve problems
- a union or an advocate
- a lawyer.

If it cannot be resolved at mediation, the employee or Metlifecare may elect to progress to the Employment Relations Authority.

E tū Incorporated Family Violence Guidelines:

7.4 Domestic Violence

7.4.1 General Principle

An employee experiencing family violence or seeking help to deal with their violence will be referred to specialist domestic violence support services.

7.4.2 Application

An employee who is a person affected by domestic violence may make a request (a) at any time; and (b) for the purpose of assisting the employee to deal with the effects on the employee of being a person affected by domestic violence.

This applies regardless of how long ago the domestic violence occurred, and even if the domestic violence occurred before the person became an employee.
