27.3 Professional Development Recognition Programme

27.3.1 What is a PDRP?

A PDRP is a competence-based programme that assesses practice against competencies, recognises level of practice and supports ongoing professional development. It is based on a professional development model for nurses and healthcare assistants to gain recognition of nursing competence, promoting expertise and valuing contribution to nursing and healthcare.

The Health Practitioners Competence Assurance (HPCA) Act (2003) requires the Nursing Council of New Zealand (NCNZ) to ensure the ongoing competence of nurses. Specific continuing competence requirements for all nurses were introduced as part of the practising certificate renewal process in September 2004.

NCNZ have identified PDRPs as one way of demonstrating competence and approves PDRPs as recertification programmes under section 41 of the Act for the purpose of ensuring nurses are competent to practice.

Southern Cross Hospital Rotorua has adopted the PRDP used by Southern Cross Healthcare and is available to all nurses and healthcare Assistants.

Southern Cross Healthcare' PDRP ensures that the programme meets all of NCNZ standards, aligned closely with the new competencies and met agreed principles.

27.3.2 Principles

The Southern Cross Healthcare' PDRP:

- Meets NCNZ continuing competence requirements – and those of other disciplines as appropriate
- Links directly to NCNZ competencies – and other discipline competencies for non-nurses
- Meets NCNZ standards for PDRPs
- Is developed and managed by the profession(s) and those who participate
- Is open for all nurses (and other disciplines as appropriate) to participate in
- Has consistent, fair and transparent processes
- Complies with relevant legislation
- Is competency based
- Reflects contemporary practice

- Accepts a range of evidence
- Is based on Benner's novice to expert theory
- Is portable and transferable between areas of practice and organizations

27.3.3 Why have a PDRP?

The Southern Cross Healthcare' PDRP aims to:

- ensure practice expertise is visible, valued and understood
- enable differentiation between the different levels of practice
- value and reward practice
- encourage practice development
- identify role models
- encourage reflection on practice
- encourage evidence-based practice
- provide a structure for ongoing education and training
- assist nurses to meet the requirements for competence-based practicing certificates
- assist in staff retention

27.3.4 What does it involve for the individual?

The process involves development of a personal professional profile (or portfolio) which is assessed against set criteria for the chosen level of practice. The organisation must ensure that the PDRP has robust processes in place to ensure fair, transparent and consistent assessment and implementation occurs.

Full details of the PDRP can be found in the Southern Cross Healthcare' PDRP – Processes.

27.3.5 Remuneration

In recognition of the importance of developing our people, improving their competence, capability and levels of practice, and generally increasing the number of expert/accomplished and proficient registered nurses and healthcare assistants, an employee who reaches the following levels will receive a pro-rate allowance as long as the employee maintains that level of practice. External Services

The Department of Labour's Employment Relations Service ("ERS") exists to help employers and employees make the Employment Relations Act 2000, and thus your employment relationship work. The services the ERS provide are:

- Mediation – Either party has the right to ask the ERS to mediate an employment relationship problem. ERS's mediators can operate informally by coming to the workplace, by meeting the parties separately or together, or through a series of different meetings. If asked, mediators can make a decision for the parties.
- Investigation – The Employment Relations Authority is available to formally investigate the issues and make a decision.
- Employment Court – If either party are not satisfied with a decision by the Employment Relations Authority, then they are entitled to take a case to the Employment Court.
- Inspectorate – The Labour Inspectorate can assist you if the statutory minimum terms and conditions of employment, such as holidays and minimum wages have not been complied with.

Raising a Personal Grievance

If the employment relationship problem is an alleged personal grievance you must make the Employer aware of the personal grievance within 90 days of the date on which the action giving rise to the grievance occurred or came to your attention, whichever is the later.
